Additional Information

This time of year presents challenges in identifying COVID-19 as many times the symptoms can resemble seasonal allergies.

To slow the spread and to prevent others from becoming ill, if you or your child are exhibiting any signs or symptoms of COVID-19, please stay home and contact your health care provider or urgent care center to identify symptom cause and receive a COVID-19 test.

We continue to emphasize that this virus is very contagious in nature and we've seen several outbreaks due to people gathering together or riding in the same vehicle with non-household members unmasked. Please continue to practice preventive behaviors such as wearing face covers around people you do not live with, social distance, stay home when you are ill, wash your hands and get vaccinated.
